To Our Cherished Patients:

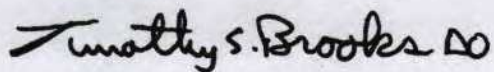

During the past year there has been a lot of speculation amongst our patients about the future existence of Brooks Medical Arts and the continuation of the medical practices at the Clarion and Leeper offices. The transition and continuation of good medical care is of the utmost importance to the physicians, nurses and office staff at the medical practice.

I am pleased to announce that the practice of primary medical care will continue to be offered at the existing offices for the foreseeable future. As of this correspondence, Brooks Medical Arts has been purchased by Clearfield-Jefferson Primary Care Associates which is under the medical directorship of Brandon Roscoe, MD. This is an independent corporation not affiliated with any medical institutional management group. This is similar to Brooks Medical Arts, which also was an independent medical corporation. Dr. Roscoe is well known and respected in the western PA area and is proficient in family medicine.

On a personal note, my desire is to work full time and be able to provide competent medical care over the next several months. It is my intention to retire from medical practice on March 31st, 2026. I am confident that this will be a smooth transition and we are anxious to help our patients during this transitional period.

In closing, the physicians and staff at Brooks Medical Arts would like to express our sincere gratitude to you for entrusting your healthcare needs over the past half century.

God Bless.

Timothy S. Brooks, DO
